GUNBOAT LOST

Japanese Gunboat Runs on a Mine

JAPANESE PLANS A MYSTERY

Russians Capture a Japanese Convoy

JAPANESE GUNBOAT SUNK.

Tokio, July 8.—The Japanese gunboat Kaimon struck a mine and sank in the river and left yesterday. The Kaimon was a small wooden ship twenty years old, carrying light guns and about 230 men.

CAPTURED JAPANESE TORPEDO BOAT.

Paris, July 8.—The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Echo de Paris telegraphs that the Vladivostok squadron attacked off Gensan a squadron of Japanese torpedo boats protecting a cruiser which was searching for the Russian warships. A Japanese destroyer was captured and has been brought to Vladivostok. It is stated that the Japanese transport, two Japanese torpedo boats and a Japanese cruiser were sunk.

ESPIONAGE REFUSED ENTRANCE.

Paris, July 8. Le Matin says the Russians refused to allow the British cruiser Espionage to enter the port of New Chwang. She anchored in the river and left yesterday. When in the early part of May, the Russians temporarily evacuated New Chwang, the British government, at the urgent request of the British residents, who feared a raid of Chinese bandits, ordered the Espionage from Wei Hei Wei to New Chwang, but the return of the Russians changed the plans for the time.

WILL BID THEM FAREWELL.

St. Petersburg, July 8.—It is reported that the Emperor will leave St. Petersburg Saturday for the Volga region, and visit Kazan, Penza, Samara and Syzran to bid farewell to the fifth and sixth Siberian army corps which will be held in reserve at Irkutsk and Omsk.

BROKE THE RUSSIAN CENTRE.

Ta Che Kao, July 7th.—The Japanese advanced over the mountain crests early this morning and advanced on Kai Chao compelling General Chirikoff with the centre of the Russian vanguard to fall back. A whole brigade of Japanese with masses of cavalry followed and occupied the village of Nan Kai driving out five companies of Russian infantry and two companies of Cossacks who were entrenched there. The Japanese arrived within 5 miles of Kai Chao. It was then nightfall. General Samsonoff made a heroic attempt to check the Japanese, galloping out with guns to shell the Japanese left inflicting great loss on them. But fearing his retreat would be cut off he fell back and is now holding Lao Chou. General Chirikoff's force is stationed southeast of Kai Chou. The plans of the Japanese remain a mystery to the Russian commanders.

CAPTURED A CONVOY.

Lao Yang, July 8th.—According to a trustworthy report Major General Mischeuko, on July 5th, captured large convoy of Japanese provisions principally of rice. In the convoy were fifty head of cattle.

LOSS OF THE GUNBOAT.

Washington, July 7th.—The Japanese legation has received the following telegram from Tokyo dated to-day:—"Admiral Togo reports that on July 5th our gunboat Kaimon, while on a special mission in the waters outside of Allen Wan in a dense fog struck a Russian mine and sank. Three officers including Commander Takahashi and nineteen petty officers and men were missing. The rest were saved."

Story of the Survivors

One hundred and one survivors of the Danish steamer Norge have been landed at Stormway, Scotland. The British steamer Cervona, from Leith, July 1st, for Montreal, brought in 22. She picked them up from a boat westward of the Butt of Lewis. They were in an awful plight, nearly all of them being naked, and one dead child was with the party.

Shortly afterwards the German steamer Energie arrived with 69 persons rescued from the Norge's life-boat. All were terribly exhausted.

The news of the disaster to the Norge off the west coast of Scotland created indescribable excitement in Copenhagen. The first message was received at 4 o'clock and crowds soon gathered about the offices of the line, relatives of those on board frantically seeking for information. A feeling of general gloom and mourning pervaded the city.

The Norge had no first-class passengers on board and only nine on her second cabin list. All the others were in the steerage.

There were on board 694 steerage passengers. Of these 79 were Danes, 69 Swedes, 296 Norwegians, 15 Finns and 236 Russians.

The Norge carried a crew of 71. She was the oldest Danish trans-Atlantic steamer running.

Speaking of the disaster Johan Johansen, a gray-bearded man from Tromsø, said: "When the ship first bumped most of us were below. All rushed to the deck. I had my wife and five children with me. At first none of us were aware of what had happened and we kept quiet, but in a minute or two we saw the ship was sinking, and then there were shrieks and cries too awful to describe. We had nearly 200 children aboard and they screamed with terror.

"Their mothers, too, were almost frantic, though some of them, more calm than the others, began putting their children in the rigging and other elevated positions. So far as I could see the officers of the ship were very calm but the crowd was uncontrollable. Men and women began jumping into the sea, while others ran up and down trying to snatch life belts from those who had them. As soon as the first boat was got out there was a mad rush for her, with the result that she immediately sank. In this way three boats were lost. Meanwhile I had put my wife and five children on a hatch and implored them not to move until I returned. When I saw other boats being launched I returned to fetch my wife and children, but they had disappeared. Whether they had gone in another boat or had been carried away in the mad rush I do not know. I am absolutely alone in the world.

"Our boat was crowded to nearly double its proper number. All around us people were struggling in the sea, striking for help and imploring us to take them in. We had an old sail and a couple of oars, but no mast. In launching the boat a big hole was knocked in her side and we men had to take turns in pulling her out. We could do nothing but allow the boat to drift.

"The five women behaved splendidly and never murmured. All around us were hundreds fighting for their lives. The shrieks of those left on the ship, particularly the children, could be heard above all the confusion around us. But it was soon over, as the Norge sank in less than half an hour after the first shock."

It appears that the weather was very heavy when the Norge started, but the captain of the trawler and others say that the rock All Reef is well known that they cannot understand how the steamer struck. "We had just got down our gear Wednesday morning," said the mate of the trawler, "when we saw the boat. At first we took little notice of her, but finally made out through a glass that she was full of people. We immediately pulled up our trawl and bore down toward the boat with all speed, the occupants of which were in a pitiable plight, drenched, half clad and exhausted. We got them aboard and fitted them out as best we could, made the women as comfortable as possible and immediately sailed for home."

Karl Mathiasen, the only member of the crew among the survivors, said that Rock All Reef was invisible in the fog and rain. The captain and chief officer of the Norge were both on the bridge at the time of the accident. The chief officer got into one of the boats, but the captain was seen on the bridge, surrounded by many other persons, all in an attitude of prayer, as the Norge sank.

Britain of the Orient

An Anglicised Japan is the dream of K. Watanabe, a special commissioner from the Governor General of Formosa, who passed through Winnipeg en route for Cape Town via England on Saturday.

Since England became Japan's best friend among the Western Powers, her people have developed an extraordinary taste for all things English. Mr. Watanabe has been sent abroad to study British Colonial methods that Japan may improve her administration. In Formosa, and also to report upon the desirability of South Africa as a field for Japanese labor.

Mr. Watanabe is a dapper little man, who speaks perfect English, and is Europeanised, as he expresses it "in everything but color." In addition to his duties as a commissioner for Formosa he has for years been identified with the emigration movement in Tokio, and has travelled through North and South America investigating offers for the employment of Japanese labor.

He said to a reporter at the Clarendon on Saturday: "I want to see how the new colonies are administered, and to investigate labor conditions. If the British Government is willing and its restrictions are not too severe, Japan is willing that the tide of emigration should turn towards Cape Town instead of Hawaii, Peru, Mexico and Canada.

"The trouble is that the Japanese are misunderstood. Travelers pass through the country very quickly, and write their impressions. They never get below the surface; the real Japanese nature is a sealed book to them. We in Japan know far more about England and English customs than the English know about Japan. We can read your literature and newspapers; our language and literature are closed to you.

"It is hard to describe the deep, intense pride the Japanese feel because of their alliance with England. It has been said—and the statement reached Japan—that no Western Power should link herself with an Oriental Power. Why not? We are becoming more European every day.

"How am I different from the Englishmen I meet in this hotel, save in color? I dress as they do, talk as they do, think as they do.

"I believe that Japan will soon be on the same plane as England or any continental power. We realize that progress will come from the adoption of Western methods and ideas. English is being taught in schools throughout the empire. The Union Jack is to be seen in many towns. Yes; we are very proud of England."

The Binder Twine Situation

The Monetary Times, a trade journal, published in Toronto, says:

"The situation in the binder-twine business can be described as fairly satisfactory. In many sections of Ontario, the promise of crops is only fair to middling, especially in Essex, Middlesex and Kent counties, though, fortunately, in other parts the outlook is better. The season opened somewhat poorly throughout practically the whole Province, but now, owing to reasonable sunshine and to frequent warmer rains, the prospects are considerably more promising, and the outlook is for an average good crop. The general conclusion formed from the above data, is that there will be about as much binder twine used this year as last. As far as the Northwest is concerned, owing to the increased acreage, in grain crops, and to the excellent conditions so far this season for plant growth, there is every prospect of a great abundance of straw, which will, in all probability, mean an increased consumption of twine, compared with last year.

"As an indication of the satisfactory state of business throughout the country, and of the prosperity, especially of the rural classes, it may be stated that one binder twine concern reports that last October, an important settling date for this business, $65-8 of its paper was met.

"Across the border, conditions do not seem quite so bright, and the market is distinctly weak. Complaint is heard of quotations made at lower rates than the schedule adopted last April by the leading companies. But little business is being done, however, even in the present easy state of values. The fact seems to be that there is in sight a total supply of binder twine for the coming season considerably in excess of the largest estimate of consumption. The fibre market is weak also. How far this state of things will affect the situation here remains to be seen."

PARLIAMENT

Ottawa Correspondence:

Prospects of Closing

Although business in the House during the past two days did not show much progress, there are indications of a moderately early close of the session. The government has announced that with the beginning of next week morning sessions will be held; this means that the committee work of the session, which must necessarily be held in the mornings, has been practically completed and it is also likely to have been the outcome of an understanding between the government and the opposition.

Still Obstructing

Monday's and Tuesday's proceedings of this week, however, did not indicate much progress. On Monday the Postmaster General's estimates were held up for the whole day by a handful of opposition members numbering from ten to twenty. The greater part of Tuesday was passed in the same way, but having satisfied themselves in the matter of obstruction, or because of an arrangement between the parties, the greater part of those estimates went through with a rush at the last hour of Tuesday's proceedings.

Supplementaries for Current Year

Supplementary estimates for the current year ending the 30th of June were brought down. The amount is $1,865,639. This is to complete the service of the current year in cases where the amounts originally voted have not been found sufficient, or where the urgency of the case required work to be done which had not been provided for in the estimates voted at last session. The militia gets $375,412; immigration, $150,000; experimental farms and exhibitions, $80,000; $10,000 is wanted to print voters' lists; $17,000 additional for printing House of Commons debates; $11,000 for Senate contingencies; and $20,000 for printing Dominion notes; $40,000 for Mounted Police; and $130,000 for post office department.

Tariff Changes Extended

A further announcement was made in regard to the tariff, chiefly explaining and amplifying the provisions of the original tariff announcement, but in some cases altering the duties. Window glass from Great Britain was reduced to 7 1/2 per cent under the first announcement, while foreign glass stood at 20 per cent; now foreign glass is reduced to 15 per cent. The reduced duty of 15 per cent on tableware of porcelain and china from Great Britain is restricted to such when of white clay. Molasses from the West Indies are free only when imported direct. "Rotary" printing presses are the only ones which will be admitted free. Where goods were actually ordered before the date of the budget announcement, if they are entered in Canada on or before the last day of August, next, they will be admitted under the old rate of duty. The dumping clause is amended so that if production of any article is restricted in Canada by special circumstances such as a combine or strike its provision may be suspended.

The Dundonald Campaign

The Dundonald campaign came to an abrupt termination with the vote in the house on Friday night. The opposition papers announced that it was a strictly party vote. If so, their party must be shrinking, because it was the first occasion upon which the government had a majority of more than two to one. Any allusions now made to the affair in the opposition press are distinctly defensive rather than aggressive. Up to the day of the debate their attitude seemed to express the intention to cut the government alive; but after the vote, it has been changed to one of keeping out of the way for fear of getting hurt.

The Auditor-General and the Opposition

An attempt is now being made to organize a boom of opposition on the strength of the resignation of the Auditor General, and to hold that valuable officer up as the only safeguard of the country against improvident expenditures by the government. If the country has to depend upon a single irresponsible officer for the protection of the treasury, people will naturally inquire for what purpose does the parliamentary opposition exist. They have spent worlds of time, session after session, in discussing dismissals of public officials, or increases of salary to the same, but there has never been a case in which they joined forces with the Auditor General in attacking the government because of an improvident contract.

The Duty of an Opposition

It is not the business of the Auditor General to guard the public treasury against improvident contracts. That is essentially the business of the opposition party. The Auditor General's business is to see that money is paid according to the vote by which it was appropriated; and that it is paid according to the terms of the contract, or for value received. But it is not his business to pass upon the providence or improvidence of the contract as made. That is the business of the opposition, and if there is such need for an Auditor General who will take upon himself to decide whether a contract is or is not improvident, that is ample evidence that the parliamentary opposition has no reason for existence as at present conducted.

AFRAID OF THE CANADIAN ROUTE

For years the annual shipment of grain from the Western States to the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence river route to Great Britain has been growing in magnitude and consequently in the ill favor of the eastern American railway systems. The following despatch from Montreal indicates the determination of the railway people to capture the trade and the means they propose to adopt to do so:

The drastic action taken by the American Atlantic coast trunk line railroads in making cutting reductions in order to recapture the Western wheat and grain trade from the St. Lawrence route, is scoffed at by leading grain men and railway officials.

Since the lake carriers' strike was settled the amount of American grain and wheat going by the Canadian route has been rapidly increasing, and the Canadian officials state that as the Canadian route is becoming better known, a bigger increase is sure to result.

Mr. J. Corbett, Traffic Manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway Atlantic Steamship Company, in discussing the meeting of the freight officials, stated that the officials of all the lines from New Orleans to New York and Boston now regarded the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence route as their most dangerous competitor.

Patriotism Is Expensive

The Chicago Tribune publishes a partial list of the casualties resulting from Fourth of July celebrations all over the country. The list gives the total number of dead as twenty-five, injured 1,384 and property loss of $177,800.

A year ago the accidents reported on the night of July 4th were 48 dead and 3,481 injured. In twenty-four hours the total had jumped to 52 dead and 3,685 injured.

In Chicago this year's victims reported early numbered one dead and 82 injured. Chicago's figures a year ago were two dead and 117 injured.

Throughout the country the fire losses were generally smaller than in former years. In Chicago 116 alarms were sent in during the 24 hours, 14 more than last year. The losses were all small.

British Engineers to Visit Canada.

Montreal, July 4.—Two hundred of the British Institute of Civil Engineers, whose headquarters is in London, will make a visit to the St. Louis fair in the early autumn and on the way will take in some of the principal features of Canada under the auspices of the Canadian Society of Civil Engineers of this city. The English visitors are expected to arrive in Montreal Sept. 20, and to spend one week in Canada. It is expected that the itinerary will include some of the principal cities of the Dominion, and it is possible that the party may find time to make a brief tour of the great west.

BROUGHT DOWN THE BODY

A party consisting of Corporal Brathwaite, Chief Dean, Constable Tidbury and R. Dewar went up the River last night to look for the body which was reported as having been seen floating about six miles above town. They camped a distance up the river all night and coming down early this morning found the body which they brought to town. It is believed to be that of Paul Housen who resided near Morinville and who tried to swim ashore from a stranded raft about a week since.

Big Crowds at Calgary.

Herald: Several thousand visitors attended the fair yesterday. The crowd was larger today and tomorrow the high water mark will be reached. Friday will be citizens' day and a civic holiday. Therefore the attendance from the city will be heavier the closing days than at any time during the fair.

The gentlemen in charge of the colorized express satisfaction with the manner in which the big show is moving.

The competition in all classes has been close, the speed events spirited and altogether the exhibition is on the high road to general favor.

The special vaudeville programme provided between the speed events in the afternoon in front of the grand stand has proven a first-class attraction. Next year this feature of the fair will be a distinct department.

The grand parade of all live stock at the fair this afternoon attracted eager crowds to the grand stand.

The military tournament and cowboy races provoked much enthusiasm this afternoon.

The Canadian Northwest
Homestead Regulations

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the Northwest Territories, excepting 8 and 16, which has not been homesteaded, or reserved to provide wood lots for settlers, or for other purposes, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age to the extent of one quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

ENTRY.—Entry may be made per the district in which the land to be taken is situated, or, if the homesteader desires, he may, on application to the Minister of the Interior, Ottawa, the Commissioner of Immigration, Winnipeg, or the local agent for the district in which the land is situated, receive authority for some one to make entry for him. A fee of $10.00 is charged for a homestead entry.

HOMESTEAD DUTIES.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required by the provisions of the Dominion Lands Act and the amendments thereto, to perform the conditions connected therewith, under one of the following upon cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three plans:

(1) At least six months' residence years.
(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, reside upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of the Act as to residence may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.
(3) If a settler has obtained a patent for his homestead, or a certificate for the issue of such patent, countersigned in the manner prescribed by this Act, and has obtained entry for a second homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by residence upon the first homestead, if the second homestead is in the vicinity of the first homestead.

(4) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon said land.

The term "vicinity" used above is meant to indicate the same township or an adjoining or cornering township.

A settler who avails himself of the provisions of Clauses 2, 3, or 4, must "reside upon the land" for six months before he is eligible to obtain a patent for the land.

Every homesteader who fails to comply with the requirements of the homestead law is liable to have his entry cancelled, and the land may be again thrown open for entry.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the local agent, sub-agent, or Homestead Inspector. Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands, at Ottawa, of his intention to do so.

Bad Storm at Winnipeg

The most disastrous storm which has visited the city within the recollection of old timers broke over Winnipeg on Saturday afternoon shortly before three o'clock. It had three distinct features—a high and variable wind changing to every quarter of the compass, and with a velocity ranging from 35 miles to 50 or 55 miles an hour, and the most extraordinary electrical disturbances that have been witnessed in the city for many years.

The storm, which was travelling southeast, but moving in a circle over a wide area of country, extended as far as Pilot Mound on the west, and reached Rat Portage in the opposite direction.

With fearful crashes of thunder, vivid forked and sheet lightning, and at one time a perfect tornado of a cyclonic character, the damage done was very considerable, but owing to the direction of the disturbance the south end of the city seems to have felt the first and fullest fury of the storm.

The only life lost appears to have been at Pilot Mound. Despite the rumors to the contrary, no lives were lost in the city. Four cows were killed on the prairie north of the city, and the lightning struck the C. P. R. station, the Drill Hall, several private houses, and a street car on the Belt Line which it put out of business.

All the telegraph lines were rendered useless temporarily and the lightning fused several wires through the city.

Russians Charged with Cruelty

General Oku has forwarded a delayed report to Imperial headquarters covering the charges preferred by the Russian authorities that the Japanese troops were responsible for atrocities committed on the field during the engagement at Wei Fong Tien, preceding the battle of Vafangow (Telissu). He says the charges are totally unfounded, but on the contrary they have proofs that the wounded Russian soldiers highly appreciated the humane treatment they and their comrades had received from the Japanese. It is the Russians, he declared, that have cruelly mutilated the Japanese who fell into their hands wounded. General Oku then makes the following charges: "That on June 15, six Japanese scouts were overpowered by Russian troops, who ran bayonets in their mouths, in their heads and cut their breasts open. That on June 27 the Russians captured a Japanese cavalryman, whom they bayoneted and then cut his abdomen open. On May 15th, the Russians beheaded a Japanese cavalryman, whom they had captured.

General Oku asserts that acts of cruelty on the part of the Russian troops were numerous and announces his purpose to report in the future every case brought to his notice. He says he feels he is not fighting a civilized army. Associated Press correspondents are unable to furnish any proofs of the charges which he presents, because no neutral observers were permitted to be present on the field, at either of the engagements, which took place at Wei Fong Tien and Vafangow.

H. B. Co's Annual Report

A General Court of the Governor and Company of Adventurers of England, trading into Hudson Bay, was held at the City Terminus hotel, Cannon street, London, Monday, when the annual report from the governor and committee was laid before the shareholders.

The accounts for the year ending May 31, 1904, show a profit on the trade of £98,933 18s. 11d.

The balance at the credit of the land account, after deducting the sum of £22,142 16s. 6d., to make up the payment of £200,000 return of capital last year, is £179,947 19s. 7d. Of this amount £100,000 is absorbed as return of capital of £1 per share, reducing the shares from £11 to £10, and the capital of the company to £1,000,000. The balance of £79,947 19s. 7d., has been carried to profit and loss.

The total sum available as profit for the year, including £98,933 18s. 11d. from the trade and £79,947 19s. 7d. balance from the land thus amounts to £177,881 18s. 6d., to which is added £90,718 18s. 10d., brought forward from last year, giving a total of £268,599 17s. 4d. A dividend of 35s. per share has been declared, absorbing £175,000, and leaving £93,599 17s. 4d. to be carried forward.

The high range of prices ruling at the company's fur sales in 1903 was not maintained in the present year, a decline of over 20 per cent in values of the furs offered for sale having taken place.

The general business continues to show satisfactory expansion and improvement since the date of the last accounts submitted to the shareholders.

The land sales for the year amounted to £280,614 19s. 5d.

The farm lands sold amounted to 183,414 acres for $1,109,960, an average of $6.15 per acre, compared with an average of $5.65 per acre last year.

The governor and committee were able to announce that an interim dividend of ten shillings per share will be paid in January next.

The Earl of Litchfield, Deputy Governor, and Mr. Alderman Vaughn Morgan, whose term of office as members of the board had expired, were re-elected.

The meeting was a very harmonious one, and, as usual, the occasion was taken by Lord Strathcona, the governor, to pay a well deserved tribute to the zeal and ability displayed by the officials of the company in Canada.

Prof. James Mavor, of the chair of political economy of the University of Toronto, passed through the city on Saturday, returning from an extensive tour of the Canadian west. Prof. Mavor came west more than two months ago to investigate on behalf of the board of trade of Great Britain, the agricultural resources of western Canada. He has visited every part of the country, enquiring minutely into the agricultural and financial conditions. Early in the summer he spent some time at the Doukhobor colonies, his very favorable opinion of these settlers having been given in the Free Press of about six weeks ago. Since that time he has visited the Barr colonists and more recently has investigated the beet root sugar industry around Raymond, Alberta.

Of the Barr colony, or Britannia, Prof. Mavor does not give a very favorable report. It is always said that the plan of founding an exclusively British colony was a great mistake. How fundamental and far-reaching that mistake was, is not generally seen. "It has been," says Prof. Mavor, "at the bottom of practically all the hardships, disappointments and failures these immigrants have suffered."

"To begin with, the idea set 'British' against 'colonial.' Theirs was to be a British colony, as if the whole of Canada were not British. The less said and heard of such distinctions the better," Prof. Mavor says.

"The colony plan, too, settled the newcomers, all of them unacquainted with the country, and the greater number totally ignorant of the work of farming, in a community where they would have absolutely no chance of observing the methods of men of experience. Had they come out individually and settled among Canadian and American neighbors, they might, if energetic, have soon brought their land under profitable cultivation. Settled as they are, they not only do not learn the ways of the country, but, worse still, do not know that they are not learning. They see no farming better or more energetic than their own, so do not know how sadly small their own results are. They simply play at farming and think they are doing 'all that can be done.'"

"A man who has broken ten acres, is proud of his achievement. He would be ashamed of having done so little had he been in a community of more experienced settlers where every other farmer had broken a hundred."

"Such a colony too," says Prof. Mavor, "was at first necessarily a consuming, not a producing one. The demand for all sorts of produce was great, the supply practically nil. As a consequence prices immediately rose. Prices must be high in any isolated non-producing community. Oats in the Barr colony sell now at $1.50 a bushel."

"If the settlers had come out individually they would have taken up land in the near settlements already producing, and the addition of a few who were temporarily non-producers to such settlements, would have had little or no effect in raising prices. As if to accentuate this disadvantage, the colony—simply with the idea of leaving it unbrokenly British—was taken away out two hundred miles from its base of supplies. The freight rates from Saskatoon to Lloydminster are two cents per pound. And the very worst feature of all this is like the proverbial very ill wind, it blows nobody any particular good, unless perhaps, the freighters. Although prices are very high, the profits of retail dealers are by no means exorbitant. The high prices of Lloydminster simply pay for the luxury of being a separate British colony."

True there is another side, as Prof. Mavor says, to the colony. Life has been so far not unpleasant. A rifle association has been formed and the men meet for practice of marksmanship. "But," he adds, "they should be plowing instead. They have choral societies and a pleasant social life, but little progress is made in the cultivation of the soil."

"The people are of the right sort and have shown under many discouraging conditions true British grit and determination. Their land is good. Only the fundamental colony idea has brought them into this rare combination of adverse conditions. Some are doing well but in spite of the colony plan not on account of it."

Prof. Mavor thinks these settlers have an exaggerated idea of the probable increase in the value of their homesteads in the near future. They are not improving the land, which is one of the conditions necessary to any great rise in value.

Of what has been done by the immigration officials for the assistance of the colonists, too much, says Prof. Mavor, cannot be said. They have done all that could be done although the plan of these settlers was formed against their oft repeated counsels. They always have advised and still do advise individual rather than community settlement.

The Britannia colonists will likely ultimately succeed Prof. Mavor thinks some of them certainly will, but the waste of money, time and energy will have been unnecessarily great.

The district around Raymond, Alta., Prof. Mavor found in a flourishing condition. Thousands of acres have this year been planted in beets, and the success of the industry seems assured.

Prof. Mavor spent two months in the west, travelling, an addition to thousands of miles by rail, eight hundred miles by trail, across country. He returned east over the C.N.R. on Saturday afternoon.

He is greatly impressed with the rapid growth of the west and the way towns have been springing up here and there in a single season.

Edward Blake and Protection

Hon. Edward Blake in addressing his Longford constituents, announcing his abandonment of law to devote his whole attention to politics, touched on the fiscal issue in these words:

"I myself have lived and taken an active part in the politics of a country which, unhappily, has become a good deal protectionist, and having watched from its borders the operations of the great protectionist country, the United States of America, I know a good deal how it worked. I know how it worked when England, controlling Ireland, was also protectionist. I am a firm believer that even if Ireland were free to impose her own fiscal system, it would be to her advantage to keep an open door and free ports, and that the worst thing for her would be to adopt a protective system; but I am still more a convinced believer that it would be stark, staring madness for us so long as our fiscal policy is controlled by England, a great manufacturing country, in whose interest the tariff would be made, to entrust England with the power of imposing a protective tariff. Depend upon it it is not the interest of Ireland that would be considered. It would be the interests of England that would be considered and the interests of England being considered they would, in many instances, result in your not obtaining better markets for what you have to sell, and being obliged to pay more for what you have got to buy, so that I am for the policy of free trade. It is your only safety. Now, a good many landlords are talking about the protectionist policy of Mr. Chamberlain; but I don't think you believe that 2s upon wheat will make it profitable for you to grow wheat for export in Ireland. That day is past."
